Thomas Arthur Turner

My father was an interesting man. He was one with very high morals, but a little distant, but very caring. He cared for everyone. I marvel that I knew very little about his personal feelings but knew a lot about his worth ethic and his dedication to his children (of which I am next oldest, and one of 5) and his wife of 49+ years.

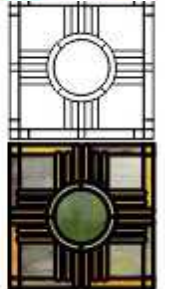

I don't think I can remember a day when he was not working, usually at his business (a self taught chemical engineer who I know did not enjoy working for other people, not because he didn't want to work, but because I think he had some definite ideas about how things should be done that did not mesh well with being a "yes person".

He was both artist and engineer, but I guess I admired the artist part - and always bragged on his short tenure as an inbetween animator for walt disney. Ha ha...

He was a great dad, I would do well to emulate all his behaviors.
